Hey Hipsters!

Yeah, I know it's been a while since you last heard from me, but hey... that just means there's all the more to tell! Though we're still in the lazy hazy days of summer, things have been positively a-buzz here at the station--some things that should be of interest:

--Final arrangements are being made for an 'XDU-sponsored Welcome Back Bash at the start of the school year(Aug. 29). This campus-wide dance party, to be held in the Duke Student Union, will feature an enlightening mix of music provided by WXDU DJ's and will hopefully be broadcast via live remote. We really hope to promote awareness of what the station has to offer and to familiarise folks with all the great releases they undoubtedly missed at home over the summer. This is really the first time WXDU's done anything like this, and damn but we're excited! We'd also like to be able to do some album and t-shirt giveaways during the event, so if there's anything you'd like to send our way, we'd truly appreciate it. I should be getting in touch with you soon about this.

--Promotional activity has reached a fever pitch during the month of July as Sarah Reichman, purveyor of "The Hot Skipper Show" and prominent member of the Triangle area arts and music scene for some time now, has taken up the reigns in that department and quickly become our main liason with area club action. And speaking of club action, during the past couple weeks we have been priveleged to have Lifeboat, Albert Collins, the dB's, the Swimming Pool Q's, Bangah, Tim Krekel & the Sluggers, Husker Du, the Del-Lords, and Susanne Vega, among others, perform in the Triangle area, and we're anxiously awaiting the likes of Beat Rodeo, Tetes Noire, the Meat Puppets, The Truth, Guadalcanal Diary, and Jeffrey Lee Pierce.

--A recent ad in the special summer send-home edition of the student paper(also distributed locally)promoting the above-mentioned party and providing a run-down of the summer schedule has resulted in a significant increase in requests, and hopefully will pique student interest in the fall. (I included a copy so y'all could see what we're really about. I assure you all typos are courtesy of the paper.)

WHERE: Von Canon Hall, The Bryan Center
Duke's West Campus

WHEN: Thursday, August 29, 1985; 9-12:30 p.m.

WHAT: A campus-wide dance to kick off the new school year! Music mixed by 'XDU DJs. T-shirt and album giveways! Upcoming concert info. Duke Rap live! All Duke students invited.

WHY: To help ease the transition from the idyllic days of summer to the harsh(?) grind of academic life. To futher acquaint you with your college radio station and some hot new music (plus some old favorites as well).

ADMISSION: $2; Beer, alternative beverages and snacks provided. All proceeds go to the St. Philips Community Kitchen.

Rap with old friends and make some new ones. Bring your dancing shoes—Good times to be had by all!

--A few of you have heard about our so-called "block playlist" and wondered what the hell it was about. Well, basically, it's a special subset of our playlist which is targeted for what we consider our "prime-time progressive" time slot, 9pm to midnight. It's composed of releases already on the playlist that we feel are especially hot, plus some additional ones, that although we love them to death, are not the most, shall we say, "accessible" sounds around. It also serves to extend the shelf life of some of our fave playlist entries. Block playlist gets the equivalent of "medium well" airplay. We've been doing this for some time now, but as you can see we've just started listing them. (Block entries on the playlist are designated by an asterisk.)

One problem we've had is finding a suitable name for the block playlist and the corresponding shows. Let's face it, "block" is a pretty lame moniker. So anyway, we thought we'd hold a little contest in which the label rep who thinks of the best name for these shows will win automatic heavy airplay for all their new releases for a year, or something like that. No, but seriously, any suggestions?

--And one final note... You may have noticed our new, improved, sleek computerised format. Yes, WXDU is entering the computer age(Are we not, oh so futuristic!). We don't have our own computer per se as of yet, but we do have access to terminals and software. We're still working out the bugs, but hope in the near future to be able to serve more efficiently and frequently, you, the intelligent and discriminating record people!

Well, that's probably more than enough for now. Keep the vinyl flowing, and thank you one and all!

Best Regards,

Bryce
